SPRING FORWARD

MARCH 13TH

2nd Anniversary of the Pandemic

Source: <https://www.focusonthefamily.ca/>

At the start of 2020, the novel coronavirus was far away. Then, week by week, it came closer. Events were cancelled. Schools closed. People became infected, some got severely ill. Life as we knew it had changed.

The pandemic has impacted every corner of our lives. As the pandemic's second anniversary approaches we continue to navigate the 'new normal'. The growing cultural divide in response to public health orders has created riffs among families and social circles.

With so much uncertainty, anxiety and adversity, it is important to recognize how well we have navigated two full years of possibly the biggest historical chapter of our lives. Our resilience will carry us through the coming weeks and months of adapting to current situations and putting the health and safety of ourselves and others first.

Resilience

As we face another year of the pandemic be sure to celebrate your strength and resilience. Focus on the changes that have had positive outcomes and find hope for a brighter future.

Nature Notes

Submitted by Raymond O'Connor

Boreal Owl

This small flat-headed owl is seldom seen because it is strictly nocturnal and sits concealed close to the trunk of a thick conifer when on its daytime perch. Its white facial disks are bordered with black.

During irruptive flight in winter, when the owl comes far south of its normal winter range into the middle and eastern US, most individuals seem to be females and many are found seeking shelter in buildings.

Juveniles are similar to adults on the upperparts, but they are a rich chocolate brown below with a dark brown facial disk, whitish upturned mustache and a white wedge between the eyes that spreads above them on the forehead.

The Boreal Owl is nocturnal and solitary. It prefers thick old growth coniferous forest. It feeds primarily on small rodents and other small mammals, rarely on small birds.

It nests in a tree cavity, usually a woodpecker hole. No lining is added and it is 6 – 24 meters above the ground. The Boreal Owl will use man-made nest boxes.

The incubation is 26 – 37 days by both sexes. Young stay in the nest 28 – 36 days. The female feeds them with food brought by male. The Boreal Owl has one brood per year.

Northern populations are in no danger. The status of western populations is not well known but the Boreal Owl is vulnerable to logging operations.

Arksey Family Memorial proposed to be designated a Municipal Heritage Site

Sources: <http://www.mhs.mb.ca/docs/sites/arkseyfamily.shtml>,
Municipal Notice of Public Hearing

The Arksey family moved to Canada from England in the 1830s, settling in the Whitby, Ontario area. Thomas and Mary Arksey's son John moved to Manitoba, settling first on the Portage Plains near Macdonald then moving to the Langruth area in 1901. John, his wife Margaret, and their four children made their home on the SW ¼ of 5-16-9 W1, in what is now the Municipality of WestLake-Gladstone.

The yard site served as a stopping place for weary travelers on the highway. In time, John's son Jack and his wife Maude would raise their nine sons in the same yard.

In June 1942, Jack and Maude's son Walter was reported missing in action and presumed dead in World War Two action. He is commemorated at Viroflay New Communal Cemetery near Versailles, France. In 2006, Master Corporal Timothy J. Wilson, son of Jane and Dale Wilson, great-great-grandson of John Arksey, died while serving with the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry in Afghanistan. Tim was raised just a half mile from this site and is buried in the military cemetery in Brandon, Manitoba.

On January 19, 2022 the Council of the Municipality of WestLake-Gladstone gave first reading to Bylaw 2022-05 to designate the Arksey Family Memorial as a municipal heritage site under The Heritage Resources Act. A public hearing will be held on March 16, 2022 where any person may submit an objection or other representation on the proposal.

News from Here, There and Anywhere

Hello everyone. This is Michelle Teichroeb writing this month. Due to technical difficulties with our tape recorder Teri wasn't able to dictate her column this month. I did have a good phone visit with Teri so we could share news from the area and naturally talk about how cold it has been.

It certainly has been quite a year for snow. Teri and I both agreed that it has been a number of years since there has been this much snow. I told Teri how the streets in Langruth were lined with snow banks from clearing the streets and highway. Some of the snow along Highway has been removed in the last couple days. It is being hauled to the Sports Grounds.

Teri is doing well. We hope that you are also well and managing to stay healthy. We still need to be cautious in regards to the covid virus but it does seem like the pandemic is coming to an end and things are getting back to 'normal'. As of March 1st vaccination cards are no longer required in public places and on March 15th the plan is to remove the mask requirement. Some businesses and organizations may continue with vaccination and mask requirements but it will no longer be a public health requirement from the government.

Teri told me that Les Arksey has moved from Brandon to Centennial apartments in Gladstone and would be happy to see people from the Langruth area.

Get well wishes go out to Marg Soos and Rena Arksey. Both are in the Portage hospital after a fall. Marg broke her arm and Rena broke 3 ribs. Teri heard that they can have visitors so they might enjoy some company if you are in Portage.

Speaking of hospitals and health care, wouldn't it be nice if the mobile health clinic returned to Langruth. Both Teri and I used the service. We both found it very convenient and the nurse practitioner was always very thorough.

Last month we had just heard that Gerd Behrendt had passed away. He will be greatly missed by his family. Teri remembers Gerd as a very good artist painting many landscapes. We recently heard of the passing of Erna Wiebe-Unrau. Erna and her husband Isaac lived in the Langruth area for many years. Erna was involved in the community in many ways. Many will remember her as an active 4H leader. She was also the treasurer for the LICDC and helped with the tree lighting, craft sale, the annual sports day and mud bogg. She was a member of and later the coordinator of Langruth Range Patrol. Erna was also a business woman and ran the McMillan Insurance AutoPac Agency in Langruth for many years as well as actively participating in the operation of their farm. She was a member of the Amaranth Gospel Mission church. After the passing of Isaac, Erna moved to MacGregor and married Jacob Unrau.

We also heard of the passing of Ellen Forsley. She passed away on February 24th at the age of 104 years. Ellen grew up South Lakeland District and farmed with her husband George in Lakeland until 1964. From Lakeland they moved to Portage. Ellen always loved to visit with people from the Langruth area when they saw each other in Portage. Our condolences and sympathy go out to their friends and family.

Hopefully with the changes to the public health restrictions there will be more community events in the coming months. Don't hesitate to contact Phyllis Thordarson, Teri Soos or myself if there is a community event or some news that can be included in the newspaper. The newspaper is usually ready to print during the first week of each month.

We hope you enjoyed the Langruth Trivia Questions in the last issue of the newspaper. This month we have included 6 more trivia questions to test your memory. Thanks again to Gerald Arksey to coming up with the questions and answers. They were originally posted on the Langruth Memories Facebook page.

Have a great month. Enjoy the warmer weather. We will do our best to have Teri back for the April issue.

Take care,
Michelle Teichroeb

Langruth History Trivia Questions

Hopefully you enjoyed the Langruth Trivia Questions in the January/February Issue. Here are 6 more trivia questions provided by Gerald Arksey to test your memory of the days gone by in Langruth. Have fun! The answers can be found on Page 11.

Trivia Question #1:

What was the branch number of the legion in Langruth? Name someone who was president.

Trivia Question #2:

Who was the young lad that jumped off the Langruth elevator annex in the 50s and broke his leg? Who dared him to jump?

Trivia Question #3:

There was a café on the north side of the hotel. There was a little opening between the café and the beer parlor, where they would yell a food order through to the café. When the order was ready they would set it in the little opening and yell back through to the beer parlor that it was ready. Name all the different people that ran the café?

Trivia Question #4:

What is the name of the creek that crosses the highway just south of the elementary school at the south end of town? If you followed the creek east in the late 60's for about 3/4 of a mile, what would you have found?

Trivia Question #5:

Langdon's house was on the west side of the highway, south of town. What happened to this house? What is there now? Who lives there now?

Trivia Question #6:

The Langruth Serenaders provided music at the Community Hall for many years. A band of young fellows followed in their footsteps, sometimes referred to as Langruth's first rock and roll band. What was the name of the band? Who were the members and what instruments did they play?

COVID-19 NOVEL CORONAVIRUS

Reprinted From:
World Health Organization (<https://www.who.int/>),
Province of Manitoba (<https://www.gov.mb.ca>)

The World Health Organization (WHO) is encouraged to see that deaths from COVID-19 are now declining globally. It is pleasing to see some countries being able to relax restrictions, without their health systems being overwhelmed.

It's far too early to declare victory over COVID-19. There are still many countries with high rates of hospitalization and death, and low rates of vaccine coverage. With high transmission rates, the threat of a new and more dangerous variant remain very real. WHO continues to urge all people in all countries to exercise caution, and all governments to support their people to protect themselves and others.

The only sustainable way out of the pandemic is to reach high vaccine coverage in all countries. Globally, 56% of the world's population has been fully vaccinated, but only 9% of the population of low-income countries.

WHO also recognizes that the effects of the pandemic go far beyond the death and disease caused by the virus itself. COVID-19 has taken a heavy toll on mental health. A new WHO report estimates that in the first year of the pandemic, the global prevalence of anxiety and depression increased by more than 25%. The greatest increases in depression and anxiety were found in places that were the most affected by COVID-19, where infections were high and social interaction was restricted. WHO's review found that females were more affected than males, and younger people, especially those aged between 20 and 24 were more affected than older adults.

This increase in the prevalence of mental health problems coincided with severe disruptions to mental health services, and an under investment in mental health, leaving huge gaps in care for those who need it most.

Manitoba is moving forward with a plan to reduce public health restrictions. Premier Heather Stefanson has noted that Manitoba will continue to make adjustments as needed in the coming weeks based on the guidance of public health officials. The collective efforts and dedication of Manitobans to protect one another has allowed some restrictions to be lifted.

On February 15th Manitoba moved to the Yellow (Caution) level of the Pandemic Response System. Capacity limits were eliminated in venues such as restaurants, sporting events and gatherings at private residences. Young people ages 12 to 17 participating in indoor sports and recreation will no longer be required to provide proof of vaccination or recent testing.

Also as of February 15th, close contacts of a person who tests positive for COVID-19 is no longer required to self-isolate. Additionally, public health moved self-isolation requirements for individuals entering the province. Anyone travelling from international destinations is still required to meet requirements under the federal Quarantine Act. Public health orders restricting travel to northern Manitoba remain in place.

Proof of vaccination requirements were lifted on March 1st. Mask requirements and other restrictions are to be lifted on March 15th.

Manitobans are reminded that this is an important time of transition and we still need to get vaccinated, wear a mask and do simple but important things like washing our hands and staying home when we are sick. We need to remain cautious about gathering sizes, even as we shift from public health rules to public health recommendations. For more information on COVID-19 in Manitoba visit <https://gov.mb.ca/covid19>.

Sketch of Early Langruth

By G.W. Langdon

*Reprinted From: A Tribute to Soldiers and Pioneers of the

In 1923 the Langruth Community Club was organized and the immediate undertaking of its members was the dismantling and removal to Langruth of a former community building at Marshland which had been very generously donated by the Icelandic people for that purpose. This material we used in constructing the basement portion of our first Community Hall. It was roofed over at that and from time to time was further extended and improved as funds were raised for the purpose until eventually we had a very nice hall indeed. That is until early one morning in October, 1934, when our prized community hall was discovered to be in flames and nothing could be done to prevent its total destruction. A second and very substantial building was soon under way. It was of first class material throughout and built with considerable forethought and care. In fact, we considered it a model community building. Full basement with kitchen and dressing rooms, fine stage and a gallery across the rear. We were indeed very proud of it. But alas, it had only been completed a few weeks when it also burned down one morning in March, 1935, the fire beginning about the same hour as with the former building. The origin of these fires remains a mystery though no doubt both were of incendiary origin.

A temporary building was used for the next two years when we constructed our third community hall, though on a much humbler scale than the preceding one. However, this structure has been gradually improved from time to time until we have our present splendid building, a place within its walls as with our former halls and they have been of inestimable value in knitting our people together in worthy undertakings of social, educative and patriotic natures. Indeed, the very splendid teamwork of our community could not have been possible without our community centre.

The United Church building, formerly a little Methodist Church, at North Lakeland, was moved to Langruth in 1925, where it was renovated and enlarged to form the present United Church. In 1929 the Lutheran congregation constructed their beautiful and substantial edifice which has continued to serve not only for religious services but has been generously granted on many occasions for other worthy purposes.

Langruth and district have continued to forge ahead, especially during recent years. Up-to-date places of business have been constructed from time to time and many very nice residences both in town and country. Besides our splendid municipal building a beautiful and modern theatre of Quonset construction was built the present year (1950), a great credit to the enterprising proprietor, Mr. Joseph Karaz. We have a very nice Veterans' Hall with annex for the Ladies' Auxiliary, a new Curling Rink which was constructed two years ago, a new school projected as already referred to and the people have voted favorably for a Hospital which will have Government assistance in the construction. In December last Langruth was connected up with the Provincial Hydro System and which is to be extended to the farms next year. New lands are each year being brought under cultivation and the country beams with prosperity. Indeed, the people are proud of their little town and district and are optimistic about the future.

My former partner "Jud" Ruth now residing at the Coast visited us two years ago and it was all a surprise to him. The last time he was here Langruth didn't have a name and there was not a clearing on the spot. He later wrote us: "Langruth is one of the best little towns in the West."

The End

This Sketch of Early Langruth was originally printed in A Tribute to Soldiers and Pioneers of the Langruth District. The author, G.W. Langdon, was one of the founders and name sake of Langruth. It is a wonderfully detailed account of the beginning of the community of Langruth and surrounding area. Excerpts have been included in each issue of the Langruth Views beginning in the January/February 2021 issue.

Langruth History Trivia Answers

Trivia Question #1 Answer:

The branch number of the legion in Langruth was 162. A listing of all the presidents can be found at: <http://langruth.weebly.com/organizations.html> Harold Wilson was the first president and Brian Erickson was the last.

Trivia Question #2:

The young lad that jumped off the Langruth elevator annex in the 50s and broke his leg was Earle Johnson. Reggie Brown dared him to jump.

Trivia Question #3:

People that ran the hotel café include (not in order): Florence Jackson, John Fedora, Jim Lee, Les Brown, Choy Family, Edith and Fred Wilson, Ann White, Lou Puddicombe, Patsy Grant, Hoehns, Nellie Carson and Evelyn Bergson.

Trivia Question #4:

The creek that crosses the highway just south of the elementary school at the south end of town is called McIvor's Creek. If you went further east you would have ended up at the Boy Scout camp. It was quite the setup, with a bridge that went over the creek to get to the camp.

The little creek was known to old-timers as McKeever's Creek named after the favorite camping ground of a man named McKeever. This same McKeever (or McIvor) may have found this to be a good place for trapping beavers as the wings of a former beaver dam existed there for very many years [Langruth Views, April, 2021].

Trivia Question #5:

Langdon's house that was on the west side of the highway, south of town was moved to Czeranko's. Frank Arksey built an A-Frame house in its original location. The Jensen family lives there now.

Trivia Question #6:

The band that followed the Langruth Serenaders was called the Second Generation with Joey on lead guitar, Philip on piano, Earle on drums and once in a while they had an Anderson from Amaranth on bass guitar. This was around 1965.
