Langruth Community Church Service & Picnic

A community ecumenical service was held at Einarson Park on June 25th. Pastor Phyllis Thordarson led the worship service with members of the congregation participating with some of the readings. The message was based on 1 Corinthians, Chapter 12, Verses 12 – 27 titled One Body with Many Parts. The various parts of the human body are used as an analogy to help see how each person in a community offers unique talents to the community as a whole. As with the human body, each person in a community is essential and important for the talents they offer and should be celebrated.

Musical accompaniment was provided by Theresa Thordarson and John Himes. Thank-you to everyone that attended and contributed to this service.

Worship Leader,
Phyllis Thordarson

A time of fellowship with a potluck lunch was enjoyed by all after the service.

Tree Swallow

The Tree Swallow is equally common in open fields, marshes, or towns. This bird's ability to adapt to its ever-changing environment has led to its abundant and widespread population.

Migrating in huge flocks during the day, it is one of the first swallows to its winter home in upper North America. Many winter on the southern Atlantic Coast, Gulf Coast and in Florida.

In flight it shows dark upperparts, white under parts, triangular wings with greenish under wing linings and a notched tail.

Gregarious in migration and winter. The Tree Swallow often occurs in huge flocks. It feeds in mixed flocks with other swallow species. The Tree Swallow catches insects in flight and sometimes forages on the ground. It eats mainly flying insects but also may take small crustaceans and spiders. This bird also often eats berries and seeds during cold snaps on wintering grounds or in spring migration. It inhabits open country and woodland edges near water. The male displays for the female with a series of aerial gymnastics.

The nest of the Tree Swallow is of dried stems and grass, lined with down and feathers in a tree cavity, an abandoned nest, a bird box or other manmade structures. It is built by both sexes but the female does more.

The incubation is 13-16 days by the female. The young remain in the nest for 16-24 days. They are fed by both sexes. The Tree Swallow has 1 brood per year.

News from Here, There and Anywhere

Reporters: Michelle Teichroeb and Teri Soos

Hello from Michelle Teichroeb and Teri Soos. Our column will be shorter this month to make room for other community news.

We hope you are enjoying the start of summer. We had a few very hot days and now we are having a few cooler days. If you can imagine my furnace came on because we had opened the all the windows. Teri and I both love the hotter weather. Teri said that she still hasn't turned on her air conditioner. I can't say the same.

We found some lovely Saskatoons recently. It seems like it has been a few years since we had a good crop of berries. I should also have some sour cherries to pick soon – if the birds don't get them first. How are everyone's gardens? Teri said that Barbara Jackson has some really nice tomato plants outside of her suite. Unfortunately there are very few flower and vegetable shows anymore. Langruth had one of the longer running shows in the area.

Haying season is in full swing. We hope the yield is good and there will be enough hay for the winter months. There have been some rain storms recently. On June 28th there was a tornado warning in the area and reports showed that there was a dangerous cell forming east of Langruth. Thankfully the dark clouds didn't form a tornado.

Teri saw in the Portage Herald that Gloria (Huyber) Borczuch passed away on June 25th after a courageous battle with ALS. Gloria was the daughter of Louis Jr. and Gertie Huyber. Gloria grew up in the Langruth area graduating from Langruth High School. She was a school teacher for many years. Deepest sympathy to Gloria's family and anyone else that has lost friends or family recently.

I heard of a couple special birthdays. Lynne Jonasson celebrated her 75th birthday at the end of June and Darrel Armstrong will celebrate his 75th birthday in July. Happiest of birthdays to you both. We hope that anyone celebrating birthdays or anniversaries enjoy their special days.

Have a great summer. Be sure to let us know if there are any events in the area or news that can be included in the August issue of the Langruth Views.

Take care, Michelle Teichroeb
